

The 5 Senses

We may hear His voice and though His sound is wonderful, if there is nothing more, it will diffuse.

We may see His beauty and though His sight is splendid, if there is nothing more, it will blur.

We may touch Him and though His feel is delicate and strong, if there is nothing more, it will slip out of our hands.

We may indeed smell Him and taste Him and though His scent is sublime and His savour tantalizing, if there is nothing more, it will dissipate.

All spiritual senses, though marvelous they are, are insufficient to enter into His Glory.

In truth, we have been given these five senses, preparatory to come to eat Him, to be tempted and to be disappointed. And when we are about to loose all ex-pectation, then He feeds us, then we are fed on the substance of Faith to become the unity of Love, as Love is: 'Father revealed'. Then all these senses are realized within us. This is our True Hope and this Hope empowers our appetite in Him.

Henk Beerepoot